Bulk Filing of Income Tax Returns

The Income Tax department provides an excellent online service for tax payers to file their returns online. The website is very useful for individual tax payers. To make it as convenient for auditing and accounting firms to submit tax returns by bulk, the tax department has come up with an interface. This makes it possible for several tax forms to be submitted simultaneously. This category of income tax return filers are tagged as e>Returns Intermediary. This is a sort of license that is provided to tax service providers who work in this particular area of business.

We, at taxmantra.com, are authorized as an e-Return Intermediary. We have a registration with the tax department website that allows us to upload bulk tax returns through secure means. While uploading these tax returns, we do not need the individual's login details. We have our own account details to file bulk tax returns through the Income Tax website. You might be wondering why it would be more convenient for you to have your tax returns filed through an e-Return Intermediary as opposed to an individual account with the same website. There are several reasons why filing through bulk returns can help your cause.

The Income Tax department allows for a priority to all the tax returns that are filed through the e>Returns Intermediary interface. As a result, your tax returns get importance over those who file individually. Moreover, because of the priority status, your tax is processed faster. You also get prompt refunds, if you are eligible for it. There is another big advantage of using the e>Returns Intermediary: it is error free! The errors committed during filing, if any, are immediately validated by the secured server. This makes it possible to get rid of mistakes during the process of filing bulk tax returns.
